Demoted Officer Tells Hines Used Power Against Him

Patrolman Raymond B. Stille says on Stand That District Leader Caused Transfer of Persistent Raiders

Testimony 'Jibes'

Previously Weinberg's Report Was That He Complained to Hines About Police

New York, Aug. 30 (AP)—A New York policeman who was demoted in rank after he had raided a Dutch Schultz policy bank—was called to the witness stand by the State today in the conspiracy trial of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines.

Previous witnesses testified that Hines, as the alleged political "fixer" for the Schultz racket, used his influence to cause the transfer of persistent police raiders to outlying districts.

The patrolman, Raymond B. Stille, testified he raided a "drop" station of a Schultz-controlled policy bank, which he was a member of Chief Inspector John J. O'Brien's squad in 1933.

A short time later he was demoted and sent back into uniform from the Chief Inspector's squad, with a loss of $240 a year in pay.

George Weinberg, former business manager of the Schultz racket combine, has testified that he complained to Hines about the squad's raids and that subsequently nearly the entire squad was reduced to uniform.

Meanwhile, it was indicated that Hines' defense lawyers would attempt to show that the testimony of five Connecticut residents that they saw Hines visit Schultz on friendly terms in the summer of 1935 was a case of mistaken identity.

The contention would be that the witnesses mistook a beaming-looking "trigerman" of the Schultz mob, Larry Carney, for Hines.

Known for years along Broadway as "The Deacon" because of his white hair and dignified appearance, Carney is about the same height and build as the Tammany district leader.

"The Deacon's" name was injected into the trial yesterday when defense counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker asked John Pucher, headwaiter at the Hotel Stratford in Bridgeport, Conn., where Schultz lived in 1935, if he had seen Carney at the hotel.

Pucher said he did not know Carney.

Another witness Charles Wall, former bellhop at the Hotel Barham in Bridgeport, where Schultz also stayed, told Stryker he knew there was a man named Carney staying at the hotel with Schultz—but indicated that he knew Carney and Hines as two distinct individuals.

"The Deacon" fought beside Schultz in the roaring gun battle at the Club Abbey, in New York in January, 1931. The night club was wrecked and Schultz, Carney and "Chink" Sherman were found seriously wounded when the smoke cleared.

Regarded as one of Schultz's most trusted henchmen, Carney's association with "The Dutchman" dated back to prohibition days when Schultz was known as "The Beer Baron" and controlled the bootleg beer business in the Bronx.

Earlier, the defense recalled Dudley Brothwell, a laconic riding ringster from Fairfield, Conn., to renewed cross-examination on his story that he witnessed a meeting between Hines and Schultz in 1935.

The riding master, who testified that he knew the gun-toting "Dutchman" so well that they addressed one another as "Arthur" and "Dud"—Schultz's real name was Arthur Fliegenheimer—said Hines visited Schultz at his Fairfield stables.

Brothwell was the State's fifth witness in the trial of Hines on conspiracy charges in connection with the Harlem policy racket, to point out Hines as a man who visited Schultz in Connecticut.

Verbatim Testimony
Rapid-fire questioning by Defense Counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker disclosed the witness' wife operated a drinking resort during prohibition days. The verbatim testimony was:

Q. How long have you lived in Fairfield?

A. About 14 years.

Q. And before that, where did you live?

A. Easton, Conn.

Q. What did you do besides farming?

A. Nothing?

Q. No other business, Mr. Brothwell?

A. Well, I wouldn't call it a business—and I had nothing to do with it. What my wife done had nothing to do with me.

Q. Well, what did your wife do?

A. She had friends coming in and she used to sell them liquor.

The witness, who testified that he "never took a drink" and would not tolerate "drunks and ruffians" around his riding academy, said his wife was fined a 30-day sentence was suspended for selling liquor.

Q. What did she sell?

A. CN.

Q. What's that?

A. Cider brandy.

Cobb Travels Course in Utah Below Record

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, August 30 (AP)—John Cobb, wealthy fur broker from London who dashes across land at daring speeds because he likes it, sped his racing car over this white course twice today, but postponed an assault on the world land speed record.

Cobb piloted his new creation, "Railton," over the 13-mile straightway twice, then declared further tests were necessary before he officially seeks the record established here last Saturday by another Englishman, Capt. George E. T. Eyston.

Unofficially timed at approximately 300 miles per hour on the outward run and at approximately 325 miles per hour on the backward trip, Cobb was far below Eyston's mark of 345.49 miles per hour.

Development of Kingston's recreational facilities for entertainment of the public was shown effectively through presentation last evening at Hasbrouck Park of the second city-wide community night vaudeville bill.

The program arranged by the American Legion was diversified and well received by the audience of nearly 4,000 people who gathered in the natural amphitheatre of the park.

The acts included the song and dance variety and group presentations such as Oulton's Krazy Kids, the Doodledorfs, the Catskill Mountaineers and the Kingston Buckaroos.

Outstanding for individual talent was Little Miss Jean Boss, who will appear on the Horn and Hardart radio program in New York Sunday. Jean was introduced by Sherwood Davis and Miss Kathleen Cullen, playground directors at Block Park, where she has been heard on other community nights.

A bid for support of Jean for her radio appearance was asked of the local people by Mr. Davis, who pointed out that her success will depend largely upon the amount of fan mail she gets after her broadcast. Jean also sought support of the audience at the conclusion of her singing when she shouted into the microphone:

"Listen to me, I want you to vote for me when I sing on the radio."

The program which continued for nearly three hours, included also Mrs. Jessie Cowley Wolfenstein, who sang America at the opening of the show; Marty Kelly, another vocalist, and Billy Baker with his saxophone.

Sidney Lutzn, recreational director, and Joseph Sills, commander of the American Legion, welcomed the audience. William Jordan was master of ceremonies.

William Smith, of Montrose avenue, was accompanist for the program. Motion pictures were shown after the vaudeville by Henry Millonig, Jr. Dave Freer directed the lighting arrangements.

Philadelphia Prison Records Checked on Other Heat Deaths
Philadelphia, Aug. 30 (AP)—Death records of the Philadelphia county prison were checked today to determine whether the "heat cure" in stuffy punishment cells has taken the lives of other convicts than the four hunger strikers found roasted nine days ago.

Coroner Charles H. Hersch told newspapermen his questioning of convicts and prison guards indicated that "turning on the heat" in the prison "klondike"—a box-like little isolation building—was a "usual" punishment for unruly prisoners.

Meanwhile a staff physician at the prison told investigators that he was prevented from visiting the punishment cells several hours before the four men were found dead.

Dr. George F. Enoch, one of three physicians at the institution, said under questioning by Coroner Charles H. Hersch that he told a prison official a week ago Sunday he had heard 25 inmates were being given the "heat cure" and that "I thought I'd better go and see how they were coming along."

He quoted the official as replying: "I'll let you know when we're ready for you to go there."

Dr. Enoch said he did not hear from the official again, and was unable to go to the cell block alone because "the prison physicians can't inspect the place at will."

"Everywhere they go inside the walls," he said, "they must be accompanied by two guards to unlock and lock doors."

Hersch yesterday completed questioning of guards and announced he was ready to fix the blame for the deaths of the four men. He said he "knew who turned the steam on" and that "eight or more guards and higher-ups" would be arrested after an inquest tomorrow.

'Angels' Save Fowl And Car as Fire Roars in 'Heaven'

Chapel Street 'Paradise' Saved by Arrival of City Firemen Who Confine Blaze to Garage-Hennery

Disciples of the Father Divine heaven in Wilbur saw a share of their heavenly retreat go up in smoke shortly after 9 o'clock this morning when a fire broke out in a shed used as a garage and chicken coop. A large portion of the structure was destroyed.

Excitement among the "angels" on the premises, it was reported, rose to pandemonium at the discovery of the fire, but they retained sufficient coolness to save an automobile from the garage section of the building and play a line of garden hose on the flames before arrival of the firemen.

The building, which is removed about 100 feet from the main dwelling on the mission estate, burned with fury at the outset, but the firemen were able to check the flames before the shed was leveled to the ground.

Origin of the fire was undetermined by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy as The Freeman went to press, but whatever it was, it seemed to have gotten considerable headway in the center of the building.

The flames were confined largely to the center-structure, near the part used for the garage. None of the chickens, which apparently had been in the runway at the time, was lost.

Insolent as could be learned from those on the premises, the fire was first discovered by someone in the kitchen who looked out of a window and saw smoke coming from the shed. The firemen were first summoned by telephone and then an alarm was sounded by someone from box 36.

Some of the "angels," who appeared determined to take part in supervising work of the firemen were damped somewhat, when they stood within the range of the stream played on the flames. The stream, which was being directed at one edge of the shed, suddenly shot up over the roof and caught in its path the group standing on the other side. From that time on, they were inclined to stay out of range.

Phoenicia Man Refuses to Tell
James McGrath Is Taken to Hospital Here Saturday Night; Silent on Accident

James McGrath of Phoenicia was brought to the Benedictine Hospital Saturday night suffering from an injury to his head and what was considered a possible concussion. How he received the injury was not known. He came to the Valley Farms Camp above Phoenicia with blood streaming down his face and sought aid. Dr. Quinn of Phoenicia was summoned and had the injured man brought to the Benedictine Hospital.

At the hospital it was found his injuries were not serious and Sunday he left the hospital. McGrath did not inform the authorities how he suffered his injuries or where the injuries had been inflicted.

Nichols Transfers To Poughkeepsie

Manager of State Employment Service in This City Promoted; Simpson Here

Among managerial promotions in the New York State Employment Service effective Thursday, September 1, will be that of Manager Lloyd B. Nichols of the local office who goes to Poughkeepsie. He will be succeeded by Manager Kenneth A. Simpson who is transferred here from the office at Saratoga Springs.

The other promotional transfers in the service are: Manager Thomas S. Ryan, Housick Falls to Saratoga Springs; Manager Joseph Casey, Poughkeepsie to Ulster; and Oscar Stoughton, senior employment interviewer at Poughkeepsie, becomes manager at Housick Falls.

"These men have shown executive strength during the trying period through which we have just been passing, which entitles them to more important assignments," said John W. Tompkinson, superintendent of the New York State Employment Service for District 1, in which all but one of the offices affected are located. The exception is Ulster, which is headquarters for District 2.

Smith, whose 30 years of service make him Democratic dean of the Senate, opposed the court bill and various other administration proposals. He declared, however, he had supported a great part of the President's program.

The outcome was being watched by politicians for its possible relationship to next month's primaries in nearby Georgia and Maryland, where the President openly advocated the defeat of Senators George and Tydings.

Johnston and Smith fought up to the time the polls opened for the support of followers of State Senator Edgar Brown, a New Deal adherent who withdrew from the race Saturday.

Brown, replying to Johnston's challenge to express his preference between the remaining candidates, sharply criticized the governor, with whose state administration he long has been at odds.

Johnston opposed Mr. Roosevelt in 1932, he declared, and since then has backed the President only "after observing his personal popularity." Brown indicated he personally would vote for Smith, but did not ask his followers directly to do so.

In California, the President's policies did not provide so clear-cut an issue for a $20-a-week pension proposal was the subject of much campaign debate.

The 74-year-old McAdoo opposed the pension scheme, which was championed by Sheridan Downey, like the Senator an avowed New Dealer. The other Democratic candidates for senator were John W. Presion, who said he wouldn't be a "rubber stamp," and James W. Mellen, anti-New Dealer.

The California contest received the attention of the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee after Mellen accused McAdoo of

Cabinets of Two Countries Take Emergency Action in Midst of Heaviest War Clouds Since 1911, Support Foreign Ministers in Stand on Crisis

FUTURE POLICIES KEPT SECRET

French Army Maneuvers Are Held Close to German Border, Labor Hours for Armament Are Increased

(By The Associated Press)

Great Britain and France today took emergency action to prevent war in Europe and at the same time prepared to meet the conflict if it comes.

The cabinets of the two countries, meeting simultaneously in the midst of the heaviest war clouds since 1914, gave unanimous approval to steps already taken by their foreign ministers in the Czechoslovak crisis and agreed on policies to be followed in the future.

These policies were not disclosed, but it was believed the British ministers decided to make a calm but firm final demand that Germany halt the campaign of hate against Czechoslovakia and cooperate in efforts to settle the Czechoslovak minority problem.

While motorized units of the French army began maneuvers close to the German border, the cabinet today formally ratified a decree increasing the hours of labor in national defense industries.

The ministers labelled the decree urgent and made it applicable immediately.

The measure was signed by President Albert Lebrun and every member of Premier Edouard Daladier's cabinet as a symbolic act to show France's determination to carry out her treaty obligations to Czechoslovakia if necessary.

Czech Tension Increases
Tension between Germany and Czechoslovakia meanwhile, was increased by a second German protest against alleged insults to the Imperial German army by a Czechoslovak newspaper, Germany previously had protested Saturday and demanded that immediate action be taken to prevent further "insults."

Unrest also was felt in the Far East as a result of a statement by Lieutenant-General Soshiro Itagaki, Japanese war minister, that more clashes between Japanese and Soviet Russian forces on the Siberian frontier were "likely to occur."

Dagkal called for strengthening of Japanese forces on the frontier, which he said had been weakened by withdrawals for the Chinese conflict.

Doubt as to Acceptance
General Itagaki, who on July 25 predicted a 10-year conflict to conquer the Chinese, expressed doubt that Japan would accept even an unconditional surrender from the Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and repeated his determination to crush the present Chinese regime.

He declared if the Chinese would depose the leader of the revolution, Japan would accept only on condition that the Nationalist Government merge with the present pro-Japanese administration in Nanking and Peking.

"Even if Chiang surrenders unconditionally, Japan would find it difficult to accept his surrender," the war minister said.

"We must remember the statement of January 16 in which Japan declared she would never co-exist with China. This policy is absolutely unchangeable."

There is no possibility of interpretation. If the Nationalist Government without Chiang yields to Japan, we will insist it join the Anti-Communist Anti-Communist agreement of Japan, Germany and Italy and merge with the pro-Japanese regime."

Nazi officials in Germany condemned recent developments in Britain, including Stanley's speech by Sir John Simon and today's morning of a debate in the House of Commons on the Munich agreement.

A dozen bar room fights occurred last night and officials said (Continued on Page Five)

Court Sets Bail In Driving Case

Bronx Butcher, Involved in Crash at Lake Katrine Gives $250 Bail

Edward Almer, Bronx butcher, who was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated following a four-car crash at Lake Katrine Saturday evening, was held in $250 cash bail after a hearing yesterday before Judge Waizka. The case was adjourned until September 7 and bail was given.

Almer was arrested by State Trooper Arthur Kelly after his car had struck three other cars as he pulled out to pass another north-bound car. Two occupants were sent to the hospital for treatment.

Almer was represented by Martin F. Conescu at the hearing Monday.

Eyes Turning to Stone

Pasadena, Calif., Aug. 30 (AP)—A man whose eyes are turning to stone was examined in a closed session of the Western Assembly of the College of Synoptic Optometry here today. Dr. Russell E. Simpson of Pasadena said only 11 cases of ossification have been reported in medical history and the condition is only one known to have been affected in the eyes. The only known cure is reported to be the surgical removal of the parathyroid gland.

Nine People Die, 400 Homeless As Hurricane Hits Monterey

Monterey, Mexico, Aug. 30 (AP)—Nine persons were known dead and more than 400 families were homeless in this northeastern Mexico industrial center today as an aftermath of a hurricane that swept inland from the Gulf of Mexico.

The gale brought torrential rains to this area—nine inches in 36 hours—and sent creeks and rivers on sudden rises. Eight of the listed dead were motorists caught in the flooding streams.

The toll in life and property loss is expected to be multiplied several times when reports are received from Ciudad Victoria, 100 miles southeast, which still is isolated.

Jose C. Plowell, city editor of El Porvenir, Monterey newspaper, said it was believed that the storm here "was mild compared with the havoc wrought at Ciudad Victoria," more directly in the path of the hurricane.

Military and municipal authorities concentrated on providing shelter for the homeless, many of which were injured or ill. Public buildings offered temporary haven.

Plowell said no deaths had been reported among tourists "but there apparently were many tourists caught in the storm on the road to Mexico City and Ciudad Victoria." He said automobiles of several American tourists were swept away by floodwaters of the Santa Catarina river as they were en route from Saltillo to Monterey.

Three automobiles were carried away and seven persons were drowned as they attempted to reach Monterey from Chipinque, a resort near here.

Many residents of villages between here and Ciudad Victoria, about 100 miles southeastward, fled to the hills.

The ratings for all these graduates was published except those of the two from Kingston, Miss Navy and Miss Craft. One wonders why, in view of the inquiries made, in this regard, as well as a just wish to see an unfinished article completed, I would ask that the ratings of the two young ladies from Kingston be published in the next issue of your paper, together with a copy of this request.

LEDGE SITTER AT BELLEVUE

William Ahearn, 35, a mental case at New York's Bellevue Hospital, kept thousands a-jitter by maintaining this potentially fatal perch for an hour on the eighth floor of the hospital. The net rescue workers are shown stretching beneath Ahearn wasn't needed—he was captured when one attendant seized his leg as another distracted his attention by handing him a cigaret.

No End of Trouble and $83

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 30 (AP)—"Some of your mail has been opened by mistake. Will you come and get it immediately, please?" That telephone message to Fred L. Morgan, secretary of the Modern Woodmen of America here, caused him no end of trouble—and $83. After asking if someone couldn't bring the mail down and receiving a negative answer, Morgan went after it. He returned to find the office ransacked and $83 missing from the cash till. The office from which the call was supposed to have been made—on the floor above—knew nothing of it or Morgan's mail.

Free Without Bail

Hamburg, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP)—Clarence Brown, 28, was free today pending trial of a disorderly conduct charge and without bail—despite his breaking jail. Justice of the Peace Ira S. Dunmire said he was so impressed by Brown's story that he picked a jail lock, went out to breakfast and came right back to jail, that he released him without bail. "I got pretty hungry and no one came around to feed me, so I picked the lock with a match and walked out," Brown told the judge. Then jail officials called a locksmith.

Clothes, properly hung and brushed often, require less frequent pressing.

MILTON

Milton, Aug. 29.—Local growers participated in the fruit exhibits last Wednesday at the fair in Kingston. Glenn Clarke, who exhibited fruit grown on the J. Harold Clarke farm won 11 first premiums and many other prizes in the open class of the fruit division.

The Marlborough, Milton and Lattinville schools are being prepared for the opening of classes, Wednesday, September 7. There will be 34 teachers on the staff this year. In the sixth grade Milton School there will be four teachers besides the kindergarten which Miss Chatterton will conduct in the afternoon. Miss Gallagher will teach the first and second grades, Miss Theresa Albuzzese the third and fourth, Miss Dickinson the fifth, Mr. Ernest the sixth. Carl Ernest is the principal of the school. The kindergarten of the school was named after the late Mrs. Elsie Hallock, who was much interested in having a new school building in Milton.

The grand harvest of McIntosh apples has started and growers are getting ready to pick the fruit starting Monday. Already some growers are spot picking for the highest colored fruit. Growers do not expect a shortage of labor this season and are harvesting somewhat early to avert the trouble of last season when heavy storms felled the major part of the fruit. There is not as large a crop of McIntosh this year as last. Fall damage and lack of coddling moth-control will also lower the production of grade A fruit.

The regular monthly vesper services in the Friends Church, Milton, was held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Branson of Clintondale gave the sermon.

The annual election of officers was held at the regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at the home of Miss Rachel Clarke and Mrs. Catherine McCord Friday afternoon. The following members were elected: President, Mrs. C. R. Taber; secretary, Mrs. Ernest Bell; treasurer, Miss Caroline Sears; directors of departments: of Americanization citizenship, Mrs. Herbert Bell; child welfare, Mrs. J. W. Clarke; evangelistic, Mrs. Edward Young, Sr.; peace, Mrs. Frank Wood; flower mission and relief, Mrs. A. C. Jenkins; medal contest, Mrs. Marion Wood; Sunday school, Mrs. William Donaldson; temperance instruction, Mrs. Oliver Kent.

The Rev. and Mrs. Howard Northacker and son of Elmhurst, L. I., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Townsend.

Mrs. Lusenberry, Mrs. Gertrude Eckerson, Miss Edith Merritt and Mrs. Boedker and Mr. and Mrs. James Eckerson left Saturday by auto for their winter home in Florida.

Miss Miriam Sears and her friend, Miss Ann Mahoney, of Newburgh went to New York last week on the Day Liner Chauncey.

Artist's Caricature Fails To Make Hit, Is Taxed

Denver, Aug. 30 (AP)—Artist Don Griffith's caricature failed to make a hit with the city council.

So—the city council is making a hit at artist Griffith's pocketbook.

Griffith, protesting the way the council handled a competition, painted the council members on canvas "the way I saw them." Then he unveiled his work at council meeting and suggested members buy it for $10,000.

Seeing themselves differently than Griffith, they rejected the offer ordered the painting placed on the tax rolls—at $10,000.

Camel Advertising Campaign

"Let up, Light up a Camel!" to offset the nervous strain caused by the fast pace of modern living, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company advises in a new advertising campaign. The newspaper and magazine copy contrasts the healthy nerves of a dog with the often upset nerves of man. A headline, "Don't Let Tension Get Your Nerves!" is followed in the first of a new series of advertisements by the illustration of a Collier. The new advertisements also acquaint the public with interesting facts regarding the tobacco industry. "Did you know," one advertisement asks, "that over a billion pounds of leaf tobacco will move to market this season? That there are 26 different types of American-grown tobacco, by U. S. government standards, and of course, great variations in quality and grades? That from the time the tobacco seedlings are first planted, Camel buyers study soil conditions, weather and local curing methods? They know where the choice grades are—the high-quality grades, delicately mild in flavor and fragrance. Camel experts buy accordingly. Over the years, it has come to be recognized fact in the tobacco trade that Camels are a matchless blend of finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic."

IN DEWEY WITNESS PARADE

"Hines With Schultz"

John Pucher, Bridgeport, Conn., hotel headwaiter, leaves the trial of Tammany Leader James J. Hines on policy racket charges in New York after testifying he saw Hines with the late Dutch Schultz, head of the numbers racket empire, in a Bridgeport hotel.

HINES WITNESS

Leslie V. Bateman, former mayor of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., leaving supreme court in New York City after testifying for the state in the conspiracy trial of James J. Hines. Bateman testified he had been approached by George Weinberg, policy operator, about moving the game's headquarters to Mt. Vernon but had turned the proposition down.

"Wasn't Sure"

Charles W. Hughes of Gardiner, Mass., former assistant manager of a Bridgeport, Conn., hotel, leaves court in New York after testifying at the James J. Hines numbers racket trial—for the state—that he saw Hines with Dutch Schultz, policy czar, at Bridgeport. But the defense elicited admission from Hughes that he "wasn't sure" about identification of Hines.

Catskill Negro's Body Is Found

The body of Charles Tucker, 57, colored, of Catskill, was found in the Catskill creek early Sunday morning. Investigating officials believe that death was accidental. Insofar as could be learned Tucker was last seen in Catskill last Thursday night. He had been missing from his home since that time.

An examination of the body, which was in the stage of decomposition, revealed that it had been in the water several days. There was no indication of violence, Dr. Mahlon H. Atkinson, coroner, said, nor was there any apparent motive for suicide.

6 Planes Shot Down

Canton, Aug. 30 (AP)—Nineteen Chinese planes were said by Chinese officials today to have shot down six Japanese bombers near Shui-kwan, on the Canton-Hankow railway in northeastern Kwangtung province. The Chinese planes, the first reported in Kwangtung in some time, were described as of Soviet Russian make.

Chain Letter Bobs Up in Town Again

The chain letter is again making an appearance in Kingston, and this time it is taking on political significance for it contains a pledge to support only those members in Congress who are acting according to "the tested methods of our government under the constitution."

The pledge states that the writer views with alarm the danger in many measures already passed in Congress which will further centralize the power of government.

Those who receive the letter are urged to copy it and send it on to 10 friends. The letter is addressed to the women of the nation and each woman who receives one is urged to send a signed copy to their representatives in Congress.

Bully Banished For Rough-Housing Hilda

New York, Aug. 30 (AP)—Bill, a truculent 4,500-pound elephant, was banished from the Prospect Park Zoo's elephant house in Brooklyn today for rough-housing his girl friend, Hilda.

Bill, a bully who doesn't know his own strength, knocked Hilda over a railing yesterday. She landed at the bottom of a 10-foot concrete moat—3,000 pounds of injured feminine pride.

Her hind legs temporarily paralyzed by the fall, Hilda was hoisted out by a derrick. She sulked in her boudoir today, but zoo veterinarians said she would recover.

Gold production in the Philippine Islands set a new high record in June when the output was valued at $2,796,000.

SERIOUS WAR GAMES

The intensity of those German "war games" and present preparations for them are as alarming as anything in current life today. It is not merely that Germany is putting on a big military show, or holding a big rehearsal, according to the way you happen to look at it. Other powers do such things. But to man and equip this martial outfit, not only has the Nazi government got the whole industrial plant of the Fatherland working full blast, it has imported hundreds of thousands of workmen from Italy and other friendly states to replace mobilized Germans. And it has taken hundreds of thousands of German workers and small business and professional men from their occupations and set them to building barracks and other facilities for the great occasion.

In such extreme measures it may be that the German autocrats are overreaching themselves. From news leaking out of the country, it appears that now, for the first time since Hitler seized supreme power, there is grumbling. And it is mainly the civilians, thus pressed into service they dislike and do not understand, who are doing the grumbling.

Is there to be always strained labor and supreme effort for them all, with slight recompense in living, until some great "Tag" when Nazism rises supreme in Europe or blows up? Many must be asking that question now, while in the words of Walter Lippman: "The Germans are fully employed. But like the drudges who built the pyramids in Egypt, they work but do not enrich the people. They support a gigantic army and a gigantic government, which together make ever-increasing levies upon the real income of the nation." How long can this last?

HORSE PARTY

The idea of a "horse party" is likely to be greeted with horse laughs, but announcement has been made of such a function by Douglas G. Hertz, on his estate at Rockledge, N. J. The guests will be "elderly nags from New York city who have served their masters long and well." It is a friendly and decent thing to do, and we hope the horses will enjoy their oats. Maybe they have rolled oats.

But will they really appreciate the party? It seems doubtful. For the sad truth must be told that, despite all the generous nonsense uttered about horses, they have mostly deteriorated by their association with man. Deteriorated mentally and morally, and also physically. Horses in a wild state are very intelligent, swift and competent in their own affairs, as are most of the wild animals. Man has usually made of them dull, plodding creatures, reduced to routine and hard labor until their minds have atrophied and their social instincts are blunted, their gains not equaling their losses.

With dogs it is different. City dogs may be dumber than wild dogs, but on the whole man has raised dogs intellectually an appreciable degree toward his own level. He has done this by close association and instruction, and by letting them loaf and play instead of working them as horses are worked. Dogs would really enjoy a party like the one proposed.

BIGGEST GLACIER

Mountain climbers and glacier hounds should be interested in the discovery by a Harvard expedition, under the direction of a young fellow named Bradford Washburn, of the greatest ice field outside of the polar regions. On American territory, too. It is an enormous mass of glacial ice connecting with the Bering, Hubbard and Malaspina glaciers, already known, and is 5,000 to 7,000 feet deep and more than 100 miles long. Its outlet, the Eering glacier, flows almost to the sea.

Considered merely as an ice mine, this is interesting. It would fill all the ice-chests in America indefinitely, if the supply were available. It is so largely inaccessible that the explorers used airplanes.

But at least here is a wonderful opportunity for the men of all ages who are obnoxious to a gun for mountain-climbing.

ing. Here the climbing can be combined with glacier study and original research calling for hardihood, and full of glamor, sun-burn and beautiful scenery.

The movement of such a vast mass would certainly be worth observing. Ice under pressure is not brittle, but viscous, flowing in a semi-liquid fashion, and there are probably more tremendous pressures under that huge bulk than have ever been studied by scientists.

VEGETABLE ICE CREAM

There is a good deal of doubt as to whether Philip Wenger, ice cream specialist of Irvington, N. J., can get away with it. Wenger is attempting something almost as daring as trying to make castor oil a popular beverage. He is putting "tomato sherbet" on the market and proposes to follow with lima beans, green peas and spinach, and heaven knows what else, in ice cream form.

It might be assumed, offhand, that this rash innovator will have a universal rebellion on his hands and a large deficit in his budget. But you never can tell. Persistence often warps human nature. It is said that you can find many children today who really like their spinach—they have always had it, and it has never occurred to them that they shouldn't like it.

Maybe large numbers of them could be encouraged to consume these new dishes by propaganda warning kids against them. They may even welcome what seems to many grown-ups the ultimate horror in frozen confections—green pea ice cream.

From some of the things Uncle Sam is doing nowadays for his nephews and nieces, you might think he's Father, Mother and Grandma combined.

This is a great age for historical research. Many of us know more about how people lived 4,000 years ago than how our next-door neighbors live now.

Germany insists there's no menace at all in those army games. They'll just be playing ring-around-a-rosy.

Seems about time now for somebody to fly the Atlantic in a rocket.

 SINUS INFECTION

The evidence that infected teeth or tonsils cause some cases of rheumatism or arthritis is not now disputed because nearly every family, in their own home or in the homes of relatives, has observed one or more of such cases.

Pyorrhea-infected gums—is also known to be a cause of arthritis. For some time research workers have suspected the sinuses as also being a cause of arthritis. These little caverns or cavities are situated in the bones about the nose and form the sounding box for the voice. We are all familiar with the flat or nasal tone of the voice when these caverns are filled with mucus or pus. However, unless the patient has an active inflammation of a sinus—sinusitis—the fact that a sinus without active inflammation could cause arthritis was not suspected.

Dr. Lee M. Hurd, New York Polytechnic Hospital and Medical School, in Medical Clinics of North America, says that he believes that acute or chronic sinus infection aggravates or is the cause of many cases of chronic arthritis because he has observed many cases of arthritis in his own practice that were benefited by the removal of sinus infection.

Thus in a group of 400 consecutive cases of arthritis seen in his practice, there was some X-ray evidence of sinus infection in 68 per cent, the majority of which gave no history or symptoms of sinus trouble at the time of examination. Of those who were then given sinus treatment—medical or surgical—80 per cent showed various degrees of improvement in their arthritic symptoms, which seems to prove that sinus infection is a definite cause of arthritis. Dr. Hurd personally observed and treated the majority of these cases and can substantiate the statement that when the sinus infection was relieved either by medicine or surgery the patient was greatly benefited, some becoming entirely free of arthritic symptoms.

The point then is that in searching for the cause of rheumatism or arthritis more than the mouth—teeth, tonsils, and gums—should be examined. "The majority of these patients had no symptoms of sinus disease and were not aware that they had it. About one-third had a discharge or pus-like dropping from nose and back of throat. Sinus headaches were rare.

Yesterday: In the astrological magazine, the death of Virgo Wills is predicted for late August. We think Geiss is the brain behind the swindle.

Chapter 20

August 30th Is The Date

"I CAME to two conclusions," Dunning went on. "First that, by some means, 'the conspirators' had stumbled to the fact that we were on their trail, and second, that, before liquidating their gains and scattering to the four corners of the earth, they had settled to close with one large spectacular rake-off and for their burnt-offering had selected Mr. Virgo Wills. The fact that I was personally acquainted with Mr. Wills and his two nieces had doubtless escaped their notice."

"It also occurred to me that the head of the whole concern was publishing his interesting little forecasts without the knowledge of his subordinates and partners in crime. Well, friends, just as soon I had finished my thinking, I got busy. My first step was to send out a string of cables to my assistants, instructing them to get on the trail of any insurance policies on the life of Mr. Virgo Wills; my second was to pack my bags and head for June 1 landed in New York and had an instructive interview with Miss Otilie Wills."

He broke off and laid a large, white paw on the girl's shoulder. "You'll forgive me, honey," said he, "but I'm obliged to say this. Gentlemen, you must understand that there was a vast difference in the mentality of the two sisters. Where Melanie was, scattered-brained, impulsive, and partner in crime, Otilie is as level-headed as a man. It was therefore to her I turned. I knew about Melanie's disappearance, for Pat was one of my own men, but right away Otilie gave me another vital item of information, she told me that her uncle had planned, last fall, to pay a visit this summer to the south of France."

The girl stood up and linked her arm in his. "I'm beginning to see," she asked eagerly, and Hugo nodded. "I fancy," said he, "that you and Mr. Dunning then decided to inform your uncle of what was going on and to persuade him to cancel his trip to Europe?"

She looked at him with an odd little smile. "You're every bit as intelligent as I thought you were!" she said. "I told Sis first, and then Cuthbert here tackled Uncle. He begged him to give up the idea of the trip. But he's very strong-minded and he hates to have his personal safety fussed over, and he just wouldn't listen to any of us. Cuthbert, by this time, had found out that heavy insurance policies were being taken out against the chance of anything happening to him while he was in France—heavier than ever before—and that made Sis and me crazy with nervousness. It was she, she said she couldn't stand the strain any longer and went away, as we thought, to California. Two weeks after she'd gone, Baron Stahl arrived in New York, and I began to meet him socially."

Hugo took a pace or two up and down the room. "I wondered about that," he said abruptly. "So Stahl never met your sister in America, and the chances are he wouldn't recognize her when he saw her here. He'd accept her as Eve Monet."

"I suppose," I added, "that he went to New York for the purpose of making your uncle's acquaintance?"

She nodded again. "Yes," she said eagerly, "and that's why I had the fright of my life when I met him first; but it was nothing, to the scare I had when he showed up at Antibes, the evening we arrived. Cuthbert had told us, you see, what he and the other two, Verner and Rakovsky, had been doing, and I guess that was the idea in Sis's mind—to come over to Europe and make acquaintance with the three of them, hoping the trail would lead her to their chief."

"Not Easy To Jangle"

"AND the trail," said Hugo gravely, "led her, we must suppose, to Geiss. What does your uncle say to Stahl's turning up here? It must be obvious to him that the fellow's paving the way in some fashion for the attempt on his life."

She threw out her hands. "He says it's all poppy-cock, moonshine, and if I talk to him about it again he'll send me packing back home."

"Not an easy relative to handle," commented Hugo dryly. "Dunning, what's your idea of the business?"

The big man shrugged. "I'm waiting to hear your end of the story, Mr. Stern. I'm still all in the dark as to how you and Mr. Lundsten got mixed up in this."

As clearly as I could I told him the events of the last fifty hours.

"Isn't it time we discussed something concrete—a plan of campaign? I take it, we are to accept the 30th as the date fixed for Mr. Wills's assassination? There should be no more of this arbitrarily choosing the day. Normally, I imagine killers make their preparations and then wait until

In central Asia is a region of high plains and mountains. People call it "Zungaria," and it is partly under control of China, partly under Russia. By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Doubtless President Roosevelt did not intend to rattle sabres in assuring Canada that the United States would not sit idly by in event of an attack on the dominion, but the statement helps to explain the cool reception given by Germany, Japan and Italy to American peace pronouncements.

For several reasons many persons in these three nations, as well as many in America, have long looked upon the United States as a sort of British ally. Repeatedly this has been positively denied by the State Department but the denials have not changed these convictions.

Now comes the President's statement in the speech dedicating the international bridge between the U. S. and Canada by which he indicates that an attack on Canada would be, for all practical purposes, an attack on the United States. To a German, or Japanese, or Italian looking askance at British rearmament, it might easily be interpreted as a foreign invasion until the armies actually crossed Canada and threatened to march across the northern U. S. border. The problem then would become at once a real one to him.

As a matter of cold calculation, of course, this assurance of U. S. protection for Canada is an aid to Britain. It saves her the expense of supporting costly naval bases which otherwise would be necessary both on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Canada.

Comforting To Britain

THE average Canadian probably has not given this business of continental defense much consideration. But suppose he were told that the United States would not attempt to stop a foreign invader until its armies actually crossed Canada and threatened to march across the northern U. S. border. The problem then would become at once a real one to him.

As a matter of cold calculation, of course, this assurance of U. S. protection for Canada is an aid to Britain. It saves her the expense of supporting costly naval bases which otherwise would be necessary both on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Canada.

Old Hat To U. S.

BUT to students of U. S. defense measures the statement about Canada carries no essential foreign significance. It has long been recognized that the U. S. defense line extends from Greenland southward at least as far as Brazil, and on the West Coast from Alaska southward to a contact with South America. That includes the whole Canadian coast line.

For a hundred years Canada and the United States have comforted themselves with the recollection that their faith and trust in each other has permitted 2,000 miles of boundary to exist without a single fortification. But the people mapping out the national defense program have looked with less sentimental regard on that long undefended line.

When army aviation specialists sought to give due recognition to that problem three years ago by proposing a series of air bases along the Canadian border, however, the sentimental attachment to that undefended border line was such that the idea was smothered under a storm of protest from both sides of the border.

Now comes the President's statement in the speech dedicating the international bridge between the U. S. and Canada by which he indicates that an attack on Canada would be, for all practical purposes, an attack on the United States. To a German, or Japanese, or Italian looking askance at British rearmament, it might easily be interpreted as a foreign invasion until the armies actually crossed Canada and threatened to march across the northern U. S. border. The problem then would become at once a real one to him.

Along The Sea

THE little gnome-like man, Willy Nilly, left the Puddle Muddlers playing games on the sand and went out once more in his boat. The lobster had disappeared. But he saw the limpets. They were very wayward creatures, though they were wearing shell hats. They had been walking along the bottom of the sea eating their breakfast but now they returned to the rocks where they spent their time when they were not eating.

How busy the little sea creatures were, eating sea weed, looking about them, resting.

Then Willy Nilly saw some clams. He had pulled up his boat on the beach and the clams were ready to bubble at him until they saw that he only wanted to talk to them when they came above the sand, and so were quite polite.

"We may be rude to strangers, and bubble at them," the clams said, "but after all we're only invited to their parties as part of the food so why should we be polite?" Willy Nilly had no answer to this.

Then he saw the scallops, dressed in all kinds of colors, and the little scallops in the water close to the shore, and as they moved about they opened and closed their shells.

"We can see you," they cried. "We have plenty of eyes. We can see you."

"What do you mean by plenty of eyes?" asked Willy Nilly. "Life is very strange," he said half to himself and half to them. "Plenty of eyes. What do you mean?" "We'll tell you," they said.

Tomorrow—"Plenty of Eyes"

Another thing that would help the country would be for a lot of people to trade their wrist watches for alarm clocks.

board to give those in the water something to cling to. As the two halves of the stricken vessel sank lower into the water, the flames were extinguished. The steamboats "Rochester" and "Express" approached and took off 200 passengers clinging to the wreck—one of these unfortunate being Robert Thompson of Kingston.

By this time the scene was wildly alight from bonfires lit by shouting people who lined both shores of the river, and church bells in Athens and Hudson rang—sounding the alarm. Many small boats manned by willing hands, put out from both shores to rescue the passengers. Even with this aid rushed from every side to the stricken vessel, there were 40 people who went to a watery grave that wild April night, and from that time forward, the rock on which the "Swallow" met her fate has been known as the "Swallow Rock."

Then later Ira Buckman purchased the wreck of the "Swallow" and hauled it about seven miles where he built a house on the Albany Post road at Valatie. The house is known as the "Swallow House" and contains a basement and two stories. Every board in it was salvaged from the old steamboat and the spiral staircase which leads from the basement to the upper floors was once aboard the ill-fated "Swallow."

The engine of the vessel was purchased by the Burdens of Troy and was placed in service in their steel mills at South Troy, where it ran for many years.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 34—Swallow

Built in 1836 and making a name for herself in those early years, the "Swallow" is probably unknown to many of the present generation; but many of the "old-timers" can well remember the stories handed down from their forebears concerning the races in which the "Swallow" took a prominent position.

The "Swallow" was 226 feet long and was built by William Capes of Brooklyn with her engine the product of the West Point Foundry on the Hudson. She was rated at 426 tons and had a vertical beam engine with a 46 inch cylinder and a 10 foot stroke.

Many races were staged between the "Swallow" and the "Rochester," two vessels of similar size and speed. One of the most remembered of these races was staged on November 8, 1836, at the close of the first season for the two vessels. The "Swallow" led the way out of New York and maintained it until near Hudson, 115 miles up river, when a slight mishap caused her to slacken speed. The "Rochester" passed her at this point and, because of the narrow channel above Hudson which made it impossible for the "Swallow" to safely pass, sailed into Albany the winner. The race, however, was officially ended at Van Wie's Point, 149 miles from New York, with the "Rochester" covering the distance in eight hours and 57 minutes and the "Swallow" arriving five minutes later.

From this time on, the two ves-

Two Fires Call Out Firemen Here

A broken gas line on a truck of the Liberty Trucking Company of New Jersey was the cause of an alarm of fire being turned in from Box 53, at 8:20 this morning. The damage to the truck was slight. The fire broke out as the truck was on Broadway, near Delaware avenue.

About 11:30 o'clock Monday night Officer McGrane noticed a wisp of smoke arising from the cellar of the former Disch building at the corner of Broadway and Cornell street. Some rags and tar paper in the cellar had caught fire. The fire department was called and the fire was extinguished with a pail of water. The Disch building was wrecked in a mysterious explosion some months ago, and has not been rebuilt.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

OFFICE CAT

The successful man is the one who is least elated by what he has achieved, least depressed by what he has failed to achieve.

Dumb—Are you yawning? Dora—No, I'm giving a silent Indian warwhoop.

Today is the Big Opportunity, therefore it is the most important day of your life... Concentrate on it; make the best possible use of it... The folks who get the most out of life don't waste today re-living yesterday or worrying about tomorrow.

An old lady's companion had just returned from the movies, and was describing the film: "Companion—The heroine escaped from the burning building down a water-pipe at the back of the house."

Old Lady—Mercy! How thin the poor creature must have been.

A professional sword-swallower, feeling a little below par, went to his doctor:

Doctor (after examination)—Just as I thought. You've been overdoing things.

Sword-swallower—What is your prescription, then?

Doctor—No more cavalry swords or semitars; no more daggers or cutlasses. Just a few small fish knives to keep up your strength.

Read It Or Not

When a law student in London, Mahatma Gandhi, of India, who now wears only a loin cloth and sheet, was one of the best-dressed men in school.

Glorious Failures

Don't ever hide your failures, friend. Don't even be ashamed. When you have failed to reach some goal toward which you've worked—or aimed.

The very fact that you have tried no less can earn you rewards. They never bring disgrace.

Though lazy lookers-on may laugh when your plans go kaplopp,

The knowledge you have gained in loss will help you reach the top.

All good endeavors merit praise so—view defeat with pride.

There's honor in sincere attempts—and failures prove you've tried.

Lyla Myers

Fisherman's Prayer

Lord, suffer me to catch a fish, So large that even I, When talking of it afterward, May have no need to lie.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW ORLEANS—Unless you are one of those unimaginative souls to whom custom means nothing, you must order a Ramos gin fizz the moment you arrive in New Orleans, even before you check in to your hotel, for this—as anyone will tell you—is the Deep South's most celebrated refreshment. Like everything else down here, it has a tradition and a history.

You must do this for the same reason that you go to the French Market after midnight for coffee and sourdough doughnuts, or to Galatoire's for shrimp à la creole, or to Antoine's for pompano or café brûlé. You do these things because you can never hope to savor New Orleans unless you do.

I THINK if one of my friends were to visit New Orleans and come away without having a Ramos fizz I would avoid him thereafter as one bereft of his senses. I would know he was kidding, because that is one of the things you don't do when you come to New Orleans. You don't get out of town without leaning against the Roosevelt bar and saying at least once, "A Ramos, Sam."

Probably he didn't know it himself at the time, but back in the '80s, when Henry C. Ramos came up one night with something he thought might be pleasing to the palate and find favor among his guests, he had happened on a combination of ingredients that was to win a fortune and perpetuate his name. It became famous and everybody in New Orleans was treating their friends to the new fizz.

"IT WAS not uncommon," goes the story, "for travelers to visit Ramos' famous establishment as soon as they arrived in New Orleans and before they registered at hotels. The bar was the rendezvous for the best people of New Orleans and America's greatest celebrities. At one time eight governors were counted at the bar. And so famous became the original fizz that at times 33 bartenders or mixers were required to handle the customers who often stood before the bar three rows deep."

Time passed and Ramos passed on too, but the fizz remains. It is copyrighted now, owned by his son, Carl C. Ramos, who has leased the rights to a few reputable hotels throughout the country.

Tells of Woodstock

An article touching upon the history and development of Woodstock as an art colony will appear in the September issue of "Echo," known as the "Magazine of the Hudson Valley." It was announced today. Mr. Clough, who now lives at Washingtonville and who resided for some time at Woodstock, unravels the story of Woodstock's transition from halcyon village to one of America's foremost art colonies.

SHOKAN

Shokan, August 29.—Mrs. Frederick Hirschmeyer has been ill for the past two weeks at her home on the mountain road.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Richter returned to their home in Glendale, L. I., Saturday, after having been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richter.

Louis Shaw of Lake Katrine motored here Saturday and called on his life-long acquaintance, Elwyn Winchell.

The private road leading up to the Nicholas Sentinelsky place, badly washed out during one of the July storms, has been made passable for cars.

Nelson Otis has the brick work on his new state road residence practically completed and the place probably will soon be ready for occupancy.

Miss Doris Olson of Brooklyn has been spending the summer with her cousin, Shirley Olson.

Werner Richter of Glendale is spending a vacation in the village center.

The Misses Ann and Margaret Ingalls, who have been at their Shokan place for several weeks, plan to return to Brooklyn this week.

George Dursten of Brooklyn is visiting at the Kenneth Olson camp.

Herbert A. Dible, whose grandfather, the late George Dible, built many water power mills throughout the Catskills, is authority for the interesting statement that in earlier days there were no fewer than nine mills along the Butternutkill from Tice Ten Eck Mountain to the Esopus creek. These ranged from Ephraim Bogart's sawmill near the present Dr. T. Lynch summer home, to Charlie Hawk's gristmill with its great wooden waterwheel in the old village.

The Terhune and Naughton families are remaining in Shokan for a few more days.

There were 15 guests at the Earl Brundage farm house over the week-end.

Stone from old walls is being hauled to the Gabriel Richard semi-circular driveway in preparation for the completion of this project.

Potato digging will start this week in the north reservoir country. The vines are dead in many cases, and farmers and other growers figure that the spuds will be better out of the ground in the event of a rainy spell.

Herbert Coleman of New York spent the week-end with relatives in Shokan.

Herbert Rose and family of Olive Bridge were callers in this section Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brundage are riding around in a newly-acquired convertible coupe.

The J. A. Hartvig driveway, badly damaged by the storm, has been repaired. Better ditching has been put in and a shale pavement laid on this steep road up to the Hartvig country home.

Al Hess and Larry Brandt of Brooklyn spent Sunday with friends here.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Ten years ago, talking pictures turned Hollywood upside down. A movie with dialogue had brought new customers to the boxoffice. Producers raced to get into the field with their new product. In a series of four articles, of which this is the first, Robbin Coons, AP Feature Service Columnist, tells about that great Hollywood shake-up and the changes "10 Years of Talkies" have wrought in the studios.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Ten years ago, effects will enhance but dialogue will be a detriment to enjoyment of screen entertainment," said Joseph M. Schenck.

Jesse L. Lasky was "not so sure dialogue will be a success."

Samuel Goldwyn cautiously predicted that sound effects would be useful, but talk—

Amusing, isn't it, after ten years of talkies? But typical, none the less, of the views of Hollywood in general. Everybody was talking about talk in 1928, because talk was coming to the screen, was already on it.

Talkie Talk

Two years before, a New York audience had seen and heard a program of Vitaphone shorts and a silent "Don Juan" with synchronized musical score. A few months before, Al Jolson had startled movie-goers into a wild boxoffice rush by speaking lines and singing on the screen in "The Jazz Singer." Now he had done it again in "The Singing Fool." Talk had to be faced!

Most of the movie population devoutly wished that the Warner Brothers, first film producers to sponsor the Vitaphone, had stopped before they began.

All-Talkie No. 1

But Warners kept blithely on. Their "part-talkies" like "Glorious Betsy" (Conrad Nagel and Dolores Costello starred) minted money. Their talking, singing "shorts" were doing things to rival theaters who couldn't get them.

And then the first ALL-TALKING picture! Producer Bryan Foy took a short subject, stretched it to feature length, and called it "The Lights of New York." "Sensational!" groaned Hollywood, watching the gold pour in.

In that summer ten years ago the Warner studio (now a radio broadcasting station) was the only one in town equipped to make sound pictures. Other studios, aghast, pooled resources on an experiment with equipment for recording on film—a method different from Vitaphone which used wax disc records.

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS

Quivering nerves can make you old and haggard looking, cranky and hard to live with—can keep you awake nights and rob you of good health, good times and joy.

What you may need is a particularly good, natural tonic—and could you ask for anything whose benefits are better proved than famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical strength and thus help calm your nerves, give you more energy and make life worth living again.

More than a million women have realized benefit—try it for the "nervousness" that's trying to take its toll of you. IT MUST BE GOOD!

For a different canape to serve with cocktails try this: Make biscuits about an inch in diameter. Just before you bake them stick in halves of small sardines, with the edges showing. Bake them—and you'll have a delicious hot tid-bit.

Dr. La Mance Gets
His Hearing Today

Laclede, Mo., Aug. 30. (AP).—Dr. William P. LaMance was brought here today for preliminary hearing on a charge that he murdered his wife during a quarrel over drinking.

Since the night of August 15, when the body of Mrs. Ella LaMance, 29, was found in a fruit cellar behind her home, the tall, 200-pound osteopath had insisted he was puzzled as anyone as to how his wife died. But he suggested the former nurse probably took poison.

At one of the 32-year-old former nurse's previous community appearances, he had known him as a San Francisco hotelier and lover of outdoor sports.

The value of his property in Laclede, Mo., was valued at $3,117,000 in 1932 to $22,000 in 1937.

Head Not Suffering. It is said that Dr. LaMance's head was not suffering from any ailment, but that he was suffering from a heart ailment.

Wide Break In Prices Monday

War scare talk supplied the excuse for a one to five point downward tumble of stock market prices Monday, the widest break to hit the market in six months. Foreign markets did not reflect the downward trend so strongly as did the New York market. A slight rally following publication of improved steel operation statistics, failed to carry through and in the Dow-Jones averages industrial closed off 4.89 to 137.06; rails 1.23 to 27.48 and utilities declined 0.76 to 9.13. Sales mounted to 1,250,000 shares vs. 820,000 last Friday.

Commodities closed generally lower despite the foreign situation. Wheat was off. Cotton was off 11 to 14 points.

General Motors reports business improvement should be reflected in satisfactory fourth quarter results although earnings are not expected to equal those of a year ago.

Steel Institute puts operations this week at 44 per cent of capacity, up 2.2 points, highest since November 1. Carloadings indicate a new high for week.

B. & O. pays September 1 interest on refunding F 5s and refunding D 5s. Nickel Plate will pay interest same time on refunding C 5s. St. Paul trustees were authorized to pay off equipment trust certificates, Series M, maturing September 1.

Canada Dry Ginger Ale voted year-end payment of 25c. Preceding payment was 10c in July 1935. American Refining Mill took no action on 4 1/2 preferred dividend normally due at this time.

July net of L. & N. is estimated at $145,000 vs. loss of $63,353 in June and income of $569,821 in July 1932. Seaboard reports July net of $158,928 year ago. Monom, net operating income of $18,976 vs. net operating deficit of $26,44.

Humble Oil and Standard oil the East Texas crude oil price 10c a barrel, posting a price of $12.25. The ten cent reduction eliminates what amounted to a "premium" which the East Texas oil has enjoyed for a year and a half. Reactions for the field may become general by Thursday although no other companies announced reductions.

Richfield Oil Corp. and subsidiaries in report for six months ending June 30, 1933, reported net of $1,005,383.

Department stores in the New York Federal Reserve district reporting for the first three weeks of August indicated a 12 per cent drop in business over last year period.

'Should Take Day Off'

Washington, Aug. 30 (AP)—Praising the Kentucky coal operators' agreement with miners as "the reclamation of Harlan county," Chairman J. Warren Madden of the National Labor Relations Board has suggested that critics of the Wagner Act "should take the day off." "Both sides are apparently acting in good faith," Madden said in a radio address last night, "and with complete gratification that the long and bitter war is over." The chairman directed part of his speech by inference to Senator Burke (D., Neb.), who has referred to "shotgun agreement" in criticizing the board.

30 Days in Jail

Francis B. Hayes, 64, of Pine Hill was arrested by State Trooper McGarvey at Pine Hill yesterday and charged with public intoxication. Before U. S. Grant Cure, justice of the peace, a 30-day jail sentence was imposed.

Signs Complaint

Chicago, Aug. 30 (AP)—Gus Grisa signed a complaint charging his son, Walter, 23, with burglary. The son was accused of taking $200 which his grandmother had put away in a tin box for her funeral expenses.

New York, Aug. 30 (AP)—The stock market was less conscious today and the tumbling leaders of Monday got back on their feet for fractions to 2 points. The recovery was accomplished on a relatively small volume, however, transfers being at the rate of only about 700,000 shares. Light selling crept into the list from time to time and top marks were lowered, but prices once more stiffened near the final hour. Steels, motors, rubbers and specialties were accorded support.

Tending to brace speculative spirits were reports the emergency meetings of the British and French cabinets had virtually agreed on the use of stern measures in an attempt to prevent a general outbreak of hostilities. Brokerage quarters seemingly were still maintaining a wait-and-see attitude with the realization overseas dynamite is plentiful and an explosion is entirely possible.

Corporation bonds did better, but Federal Loans ended. Grains inclined to slip, although other major commodities improved.

That European nervousness was threatened by a sharp upturn of the dollar in terms of the principal European currencies. Gold at London was lifted to a 3-year peak and the British pound dropped below its old parity with the American monetary unit for the first time since 1935.

Prominent stocks on the forward list included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda International, Nickel, Air Reduction, Westinghouse, DuPont, Union Carbide, Owens-Illinois, Loew's, Santa Fe, Great Northern and Standard Oil of N. J.

Boss: Up in the Bronx is a rather large apartment house, which has a rule that tenants can't all out on front on folding chairs. There are also a number of other rules, including one about washing hot water, but the no-sitting regulation is enforced strictly by an elevator man who also acts as doorman. There is one exception, however, a large, silvery-haired, motherly-looking woman. At two o'clock each pleasant afternoon, she comes out with her chair and, beaming at passers-by, sits and knits until five when she goes inside. Instead of reminding her of the rule, the guardian carries her chair out and in for her. She owns the building.

Staff of Life: Just about any kind of bread the world knows is baked regularly in New York. True, all kinds cannot be obtained in bakeries because of insufficient demand. Yet day after day, New York's bakeries turn out 11 different varieties of foreign bread. As a matter of fact, even a Laplander can step into a bakery and obtain exactly the same kind of bread. It can neither pronounce nor spell the name of it as relatives and friends in the homeland have as regular fare.

New York: Amid the hurrying hundreds on lower Broadway at the close of the business day, a professional man on his way from his office to the subway slipped and would have suffered a bad fall had not another man caught him. There were thanks, of course, and during the ensuing conversation, they discovered that they had been living for the last six years not only in the same apartment house but on the same floor without having been aware of the existence one of the other.

Final: "My next thriller," boasted a movie director to Al Donahue, "will leave the audience with their mouths open."

"Yeah," responded Donahue, "I guess it is hard for them to yawn with their mouths closed."

Ancient Indian Pipes to Get Fireproof Security

FT. BELKNAP, MONT. — Plans are being made to put religious objects of the Gros Ventres Indian tribe in a fireproof building for preservation. Of particular interest are two pipes possessed by the Indians. The flat pipe is believed to have been given to the tribe when the world was made, and the feathered pipe is said to have been given an ancient chief during a violent storm. The keepers of the pipes have died and so great is the superstition concerning the objects, even among Christian members of the tribe, that they will not touch them. Several offers of money have been made by museums and private collectors.

Egg-Laying Record

Set by Pekin Duck
NEWPORT, ORE.—An egg a day for 130 days is the impressive record chalked up by a white Pekin duck owned by Mrs. Dave McNeal.

The average duck lays approximately 60 eggs in the same length of time.

White Rat in Demand

Rats of any description may be repulsive to the average person, but there is one breed, the white rat, which has proven invaluable to the human race. The tiny creatures have been a great aid in helping find a cure for cancer, bubonic plague and other destroyers of the human race. And to some, it has meant big business. Some breeders carry a stock of 50,000 rats.

California Cloudbursts

Los Angeles, Aug. 30 (AP)—Cloudbursts, minor floods and lightning-started brush fires plagued Southern California today in the third day of an oppressive heat wave. One death was indirectly caused by stormy weather.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

Short Story: On his return home after a number of fruitless and discouraging editorial calls, a young author opened his briefcase and found not the three manuscripts with which he had started but a collection of fruit, feminine silk things. His wife didn't make any comment but he didn't like the look in her eye, so when he started to back-track the next morning, he wasn't in exactly good spirits. Nor did they rise any, when on his second stop, he discovered that the unintended exchange had been made with a woman fiction editor whom he had been trying for some time to interest in his work. No end embarrassed, he started to apologize for his carelessness. She cut him short. She too hadn't discovered the error until he had reached her apartment. Then, moved by curiosity, which even editors seem to have, she read the manuscripts—and liked them so well that she decided to accept all three stories.

Samaritan: As is well known, New York's many pigeon flocks have certain friends who make it their business to feed them regularly. Sparrows, also numerous, are not so fortunate. But up on Riverside drive every afternoon, a bent little man, with a face like a russet apple that has been kept in the cellar all winter, appears with a bag of feed and gives the sparrows a treat. A bit hesitant about being interviewed, he finally explained by saying that he had a fellow feeling for sparrows because they have so few friends. At first, he chased all the pigeons away before spreading food. Now the sparrows perform that task themselves so that everything is ready when he arrives. Pigeons are dumb anyway, he continued. On the other hand, sparrows are smart, the proof lying in the fact that they are able to pick up a living in New York. With that, he avoided further questions by walking away.

Hasbrouck Park Captures Playground Trophy for 1938

Hasbrouck Park, with a total of 42 1/2 points, captured the playground trophy placed in competition by the Department of Recreation each year. The trophy originally presented by Stuart Parks four years ago, has been won successively by Barmann, Block, Loughran and Hasbrouck Parks. No park has yet won the trophy twice.

Taking first places in the Kite Contest, Final Exhibition, Pee-wee and Junior Softball Leagues, Hasbrouck leads its nearest rival, either Barmann or Loughran, depending on the playoffs in the Girls Softball League and Boys Baseball League, by at least 5 1/2 points. Getting off to a very poor start at the beginning of the season, but not even placing in the first interplayground event, the "On Wheels Carnival," Hasbrouck's rise has been a gradual but steady one, climaxed by the winning of the biggest event of the season, the Final Exhibit. The boys and girls from Hasbrouck Park have taken places in 8 of the 11 competitions scheduled by the Recreation Department, and its margin of victory is one of the largest in Kingston's playground history.

The fight for second place, promises to be a real thriller, depending on the breaking of the tie between Barmann, Loughran and Block in the Girls Softball League, which are scheduled as follows: Wednesday morning Block at Barmann, the winner to play Loughran on Thursday. Much also depends on the Boys Baseball game tomorrow morning at the Athletic Field between Block and Loughran. As it stands now, without the results of the two aforementioned leagues, Barmann has 30 1/2 points and Loughran 28 5/6 points. Winning the Girls League, or beating Block in baseball and taking second in the Girls League will insure second place for Loughran. Either way the difference between second and third may be in a fraction of a point. Hutton Park is now fourth with 26 5/6 points, Block 5th with 20 points, Forsyth 6th with 11 points, Cornell 7th with 10, and High School last with 4 points.
